GENERAL DATA PROTECTION REGULATION 2018

The General Data Protection Regulation came into effect on 25 May 2018. The legislation is there to give you more control of how your personal data is used and how companies can contact you.

All organizations, including sporting associations, leagues and clubs are required to comply with this law, which replaces the Data Protection Act, 1988.

In order for Buckfastleigh Bowling Club to function and communicate we need to hold items of your data, including email addresses, telephone numbers and in some cases addresses, as we do at present.

To enable this process to continue we need to receive your written consent that you are happy to let us hold your data and use it on our website as required and to use that data only in connection with our sport of bowls.

We undertake never to sell or pass on your data to any other website or organization other than Bowls England, Bowls Devon, Mid Devon Bowling League, Men's Over 55's League and Plymouth & District Ladies Bowls League or other Bowls Clubs for their use in arranging fixtures and competitions.

Data collected on Competition Entry Forms will be shown on the County website, but information is restricted to email addresses and telephone numbers. There will be public access to this information.

You have the right to demand that we remove your data when you tell us in writing and that will be done immediately.

We will ask you to renew/update this consent annually. This will be done at the same time as any Membership Renewal or entry into any League or Competition needing the data for adequate communication to take place for these Leagues and Competitions to function.
